SPANISH GARRISONS SURRENDER

Lieutenant Romero, Who Surrendered His Garrison Without a Struggle, Arrested by Civil Authorities, and Will Probably Be Sentenced to Death by Court Martial.

HAVANA, June 27.—The most serious [illegible] of Spanish disasters received here [illegible] the outbreak of the rebellion reached [illegible] last evening. The garrisons of two [illegible]s have surrendered and the places [illegible]selves have been burned by Maximo [illegible]z. Firing was heard constantly [illegible]d Puerto Principe Tuesday night, [illegible]xtraordinary precautions are being [illegible] to protect that city. Owing to the [illegible]ctions placed by the government [illegible]he transmission of telegraphic news [illegible]ning the insurrection only the most [illegible]r details of the disasters to the [illegible]h arms are obtainable.

[illegible]ppears certain, however, that the [illegible]on at El Mulato, in the province of [illegible] Principe, about thirty kilometers [illegible] the city of Puerto Principe and capi[illegible] of the province, has surrendered to [illegible]o Gomez. The garrison consisted [illegible] twenty-five Spanish soldiers, un[illegible]tenant Romero, and they were [illegible] in a guano house, fortified with [illegible]and pierced with loop holes for [illegible]place was also provisioned and [illegible]siderable stock of ammuni[illegible]

[illegible] unexplained absence of [illegible]omero the fort was sur[illegible]out 1,000 insurgents, under [illegible] of Maximo Gomez. The [illegible]ssenger to the garrison of [illegible]nouncing that he gave the [illegible] minutes in which to sur[illegible]he alternative of being fired [illegible]ill insurgent force if they [illegible]o. It is added that the sol[illegible] volleys f[illegible]ling to fight, and were pre[illegible]menced [illegible]o when Lieutenant Romero [illegible]e fort, and his presence being [illegible] to Maximo Gomez the latter [illegible]cond note, saying the insur[illegible]lesire to shed blood unneces[illegible]refore, the lieutenant was [illegible]ites more in which to sur[illegible] and its contents to the in[illegible]reupon the lieutenant sur[illegible]rison, against the desire [illegible]ho were most indignant [illegible]d to capitulate without [illegible]

Against [illegible] the guerill[illegible]son was in the hands of [illegible]selves as b[illegible] Maximo Gomez ordered [illegible]emy, using [illegible] Julato to be burned, and [illegible]able behin[illegible] Lieutenant Romero of his [illegible] they fi[illegible] liberty.

[illegible]t was afterwards arrested by the authorities of Puerto Principe, and it is thought probable that he will be promptly tried by court martial and shot, like Lieutenant Gallege, who commanded a garrison which was surprised in a similar manner while the lieutenant in command was away.

In addition, the town of San Geronimo, situated about fifteen kilometers southwest of El Mulato, has met the same fate as the latter place. It was attacked by the insurgents under Maximo Gomez and was burned to the ground after its garrison of about fifty men had surrendered. In this case, however, it is stated that the soldiers succeeded in burying a great part of their stores of ammunition before the fort of San Geronimo was captured by the enemy.

Advices which have reached here from Puerto Principe would seem to indicate that the city referred to is infested by the insurgents. Tuesday night firing was constantly heard around Puerto Principe, and the military governor of that place has issued a proclamation forbidding any one to come into the town or go out after dark, and no more than three persons are in the future to be allowed to assemble in public. Finally no one is to be allowed on horse back in the city of Puerto Principe after nightfall.

It is rumored here that Antonio Maceo has succeeded in making his way from Santiago de Cuba into the province of Puerto Principe at the head of a large body of insurgents, and it may be his intention to join his forces with those of Gomez and make a combined attack upon Puerto Principe.

It is also rumored here that the rear guard of the insurgent force commanded by Gomez has been attacked by the Spanish troops, who killed twelve of the enemy and captured nineteen prisoners.

DEADLY DUEL IN OKLAHOMA.

It Arose Over a Published Article in a Daily Newspaper.

SOUTH ENID, O. T., June 27.—R. W. Patterson, register of the United States land office at this place, and City Marshal Williams lie dead at the city morgue, while K. L. Isenberg, editor of the Daily Wave, is badly wounded, the result of a sensational street fight that occurred here last evening. Isenberg will recover. The cause of the tragedy was a criticism of Patterson written by Isenberg in his paper.

The objectionable article appeared in yesterday afternoon's paper, and no sooner had Patterson read it than he started on a search for the editor. The men met on the main street at 7 o'clock in the evening, and a prelude of angry words was almost immediately followed by blows. Several passes were made when Patterson flashed a revolver and began shooting at his alleged slanderer. Several shots were fired before Isenberg could seek cover, one ball taking effect at the outer edge of the left eye and producing a painful wound.

In the midst of the fracas Marshal Williams appeared upon the scene, and Patterson turned his gun upon him. Before Williams dropped he was able to draw his revolver and managed to fire at the murderer, the bullet hitting Patterson in the forehead and killing him instantly. Williams died within an hour.

Patterson's body was removed to the morgue, where it rests near that of Williams. Patterson leaves a widow and three little girls. Williams leaves a widow and one child. All concerned are prominent, and hitherto had borne good characters. The city is in a state of intense excitement over the tragedy.

Important Railroad Decision.

CARLISLE, Pa., June 27.—Judge Biddle rendered an important decision in the suit brought by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, against the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company, to enforce a traffic agreement between the Gettysburg and Harrisburg railway, which is controlled by the Reading, and the Cumberland Valley railway, which is controlled by the Pennsylvania. Judge Biddle's order requires the Gettysburg road to issue coupon tickets, enabling passengers over its lines to travel on the Pennsylvania, and directs that it ship all freight under its control over the Pennsylvania lines, when its destination is reasonably accessible by that road. The court, however, refused to order the Gettysburg road to arrange its schedule of trains so as to connect with the Pennsylvania.

A San Francisco Sensation.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Two sensational cases which have never had publicity, although they have been in the United States circuit court for three years, were brought to light yesterday. The suits contain allegations of embezzlement against two of the most prominent residents of this city. These alleged defaulters are William J. Bryan, ex-postmaster of San Francisco during President Cleveland's first term, and John Quinn, who was revenue collector under President Harrison. The charge made by the government against Bryan is that he received $9,939 which he neglected to turn into the United States treasury. Quinn's alleged misappropriations aggregate $2,961.52. The defense of Bryan and Quinn, it is stated, is that the shortages were caused by the defalcations of subordinates.

Killed by Her Mother-in-Law.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 26.—Annie Smith, aged 22, was shot and instantly killed by Mrs. Louisa Barnes, her mother-in-law, aged 50. There were no witnesses to the shooting, which Mrs. Barnes said was accidental, bue which the police think was intentional. The shooting took place in a room at 821 Madison street, in which Charles Drayer, who is now in jail awaiting trial for the crime, killed Bertha Huanke about one year ago. Mrs. Barnes is under arrest, awaiting the investigation of the coroner's jury.

HARDIN THE NOMINEE.

A Silverite on a Gold Platform in Kentucky.

CARLISLE STRONGLY INDORSED.

His Speeches in His Native State Said to Have Had Great Weight in Fixing the Policy of His Party on the Money Question.

LOUISVILLE, June 27.—The Democratic state convention of Kentucky has certainly indorsed the administration, with special tributes to President Cleveland "and his distinguished coadviser and secretary, John G. Carlisle." No outing was ever productive of more effective results than that of Secretary Carlisle to the Kentucky and Memphis conventions. The silverites, including Senator Blackburn, attribute their defeat to the recent speeches of Carlisle and the circulation that was given them.

The free coinage men do not deny that they expected to control the convention and all its committees, platform and nominations. They fought gamely to a finish, and acknowledge their defeat, although they make charges about the way it was done. The free silver men were beaten in district meetings that elected members of the various committees, in the selection of Judge W. M. Beckner for temporary chairman and Congressman A. S. Berry for permanent chairman and in the organization of the committee on resolutions, as well as in the organization of other committees.

Yesterday the silver men went down under the adoption of the minority report of the committee on credentials, seating Clay's "sound money" delegates, as well as under the adoption of the majority report on resolutions for sound money and the indorsement of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle. The committee on credentials is one that the "sound money" men did not look after, and the silver men had a majority on it, but the convention overruled the majority by adopting the minority report.

Senator Blackburn and other silver leaders remained on the floor of the convention and fought to the last on the resolutions after which they did not take much interest in those who, as they said, had previously deserted them. They were very bitter towards Auditor of State Norman, who was General Hardin's manager and himself a candidate for renomination.

In Senator Blackburn's speech against the majority report he showed his feeling toward some on whom he had depended, while he referred very respectfully to Senator Lindsay, Congressman McCreary and others who had opposed him openly. The convention was a record breaker in great speeches, as well as in other respects.

The fight between Generals Hardin and Clay for the gubernatorial nomination was much closer than the Hardin men expected. They state that if they could have forced nominations on Tuesday Hardin would have had over 600 votes, instead of less than 500, and admit that they were nervous all day.

While Hardin held the silver vote almost solid, the Clay men could not get all the "sound money" men away from him, because of his consideration for them in the organization of the convention and of his unusually strong personal following. Under the circumstances the nomination of Hardin is considered a great personal victory, as the men who framed the platform and shaped the policy of the party had been working hard for Clay or a dark horse.

In the present fight the entire daily press of Kentucky has been against Senator Blackburn, and the Cincinnati Enquirer has been his exponent. Last night the senator made the following statement to the Enquirer correspondent:

"I do not feel sore, nor have any heartburnings. I realize, however, that it is impossible to win a fight against a combination of money and federal patronage, especially where both are furnished in unlimited quantities."

The convention did not reach the nominations until last evening's session. When the convention reassembled at 7:30 p. m. dilatory measures occupied almost an hour, when the name of General Cassius M. Clay was presented by George C. Lockhart for the nomination for governor and seconded by Isaac M. Quigley. R. J. Breckinridge, the eloquent brother of W. C. P. Breckinridge, presented the name of P. Watt Hardin, seconded by James Tarvin and I. A. Spalding.

There were 878 votes, making 440 necessary to nominate.

When the counties were all called it was evident that General Hardin was nominated, and before the result of the ballot was announced the Clay men moved that the nomination of General Hardin be made unanimous, and it carried with a great hurrah. The result of the ballot was announced as follows: Hardin, 468½; Clay, 330½; Stone, 76; Watterson, 3.

For lieutenant governor the names of R. T. Tyler, M. B. Brown and Oscar Turner, Jr., were presented. Tyler was nominated without counting the vote, when the convention, at midnight, adjourned until today.

Dismissal of the indictments was recommended by the district attorney, on the ground that the evidence obtainable was not sufficient to convict.

ADMIRAL DA GAMA DEAD

The Noted Brazilian Insurgent a Victim of Suicide.

PREFERRED DEATH TO CAPTURE.

The Naval Leader Who, with Admiral Mello, Made Such a Vigorous Fight Against President Peixoto and Continued It Against the Present Government.

BUENOS AYRES, June 27.—The insurgents under the command of Admiral da Gama, in the province of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, have been defeated by the government troops at Campos. Admiral Osario was wounded and captured. He subsequently succumbed to his injuries. Admiral da Gama, finding himself overpowered, committed suicide. General Taveres assumed command of the rebels.

Saldanha da Gama was born in Rio de Janeiro, and was descended from a noble Portuguese family the most illustrious of whose members was the celebrated Vasco da Gama. Some of the family now hold high office in the Portuguese royal court.

Da Gama was one of the ablest and most influential officers of the Brazilian navy. He was held in the highest estimation by Dom Pedro, the Brazilian emperor, and was always a strong monarchist. When the revolt against Peixoto occurred, about two years ago, he remained neutral for some time, but finally decided to join the insurgents. His accession was hailed by them as a great victory, but Peixoto made use of Da Gama's well known monarchical tendencies to counteract the effect of his desertion.

On Trial for Emily Hall's Murder.

DETROIT, June 27.—Herman B. Lane continued his testimony in the trial of Dr. Seaman, who is charged with Emily Hall's death. Lane told a straight story about Miss Hall's death and burial. He said the doctor gave the corpse the name of Myrtle Cook, and her address as Piquette avenue, which he remarked would do as well as any other. Dr. Seaman afterwards signed Emily Hall's name to a money order addressed to her, and witness himself got it cashed. Rev. William Pease, of St. Clair, identified letters sent from England to Mrs. Lane regarding the care of Emily Hall as being in the handwriting of the Rev. Jonathan Bell, who is a brother-in-law of Pease.

A HALF CENTURY OLD

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME.

Brief Resume of the History of a Most Notable Roman Catholic Institution of the Higher Learning—Its Fiery New Birth In 1879.

It was only 50 years ago that the Roman Catholic University of Notre Dame du Lac—Our Lady of the Lake—was established by the Rev. Edwin S. Sorin on a 600 acre tract of woodland bordering the St. Joseph river, in the northern part of Indiana. It was at first but a small and struggling school, but now, at the half century mark, it is one of the most notable institutions of learning in the United States.

The first move in the direction of establishing Notre Dame, as by common consent it is now termed, was made in 1830 by the missionary father, Very Rev. S. T. Badin, the first Catholic priest ordained within the boundaries of the republic. With a keener insight than that possessed by many others, he purchased the beautiful tract mentioned from the government at $1.25 an acre with the notion that there a great school should ultimately be located. Later Father Badin conveyed this tract, which had come to be known as St. Mary's of the Lake, to the bishop of Vincennes.

In 1842 the first steps in the realization of the educational scheme were taken, when the prelate conveyed the property to Father Sorin, on condition that a college should be established there within a certain time. This important work could not have been placed in more competent hands. Father Sorin was a priest of the congregation of the Holy Cross, a missionary and educational society founded in France late in the eighteenth century, of which a station was established in the diocese of Vincennes in 1840 or thereabout. When Father Sorin and his associates, late in November, 1842, first looked upon the site of the future college, a headquarters for all the missions of what are now northern Indiana and southern Michigan had already been established at St. Mary's of the Lake.

But despite this preliminary work the task before them was not an easy one. To establish an institution of the higher learning is not a lightsome labor even now, and then it was vastly more difficult.

The story of the slow upbuilding of the present splendid university is most absorbing, but here it can only be indicated, not told. The young college had no endowment, aside from the fee simple in the beautiful tract upon which it was situated, and as yet this yielded no income, so that the only money received was the tuition fees of the few students. The devoted priests and teachers that made up its faculty were obliged to put up with almost innumerable privations, and it was not until 1844 that it was possible to hold regular commencement exercises. It was in that year that the name was changed from St. Mary's of the Lake to the present title. It was in that year also the legislature of Indiana conferred upon it a regular charter as a university.

Since that year the University of Notre Dame has progressed steadily. In 1879 it suffered what was at the time believed to be a most serious reverse, for, on April 23 of that year, five of the university's chief buildings were wiped out by fire, and with them invaluable libraries and a great collection of scientific apparatus and relics. But this fire did for Notre Dame what the Chicago fire did for the wonderful city on Lake Michigan. It marked the beginning of a more vigorous growth and a wider development. It was almost like a new birth. By the following September, so rapidly had the recuperative powers of the institution worked, the magnificent central building which forms the nucleus of the present Notre Dame had arisen on the April ashes, and the usual entrance of students took place.

Every year during the 26 that have elapsed since then new buildings have been put up, and when it was decided to hold a golden jubilee of the institution on June 11 and the two days following it was seen that the guests of the university would be bidden to a celebration amid a cluster of handsome and magnificent structures, almost like a town in extent and far exceeding the promise given a half century ago by the few small buildings then standing.

Of the beauties of Notre Dame, both natural and man made, columns might be written without exhausting the subject. The university stands on an eminence in the midst of a wide expanse of landscape, brightened by the silver sheen of the St. Joseph river and the lake from which the institution took its first name and rendered additionally charming by sylvan stretches alternating with cultivated fields. The buildings are said to be the most valuable owned by any college west of the Appalachian chain. They include, besides the main building, a chapel, which is really a magnificent church of beautiful architectural design and rich in treasures of religious art, an academy of music, science hall, institute of technology, etc. The course of study is very comprehensive, the faculty is made up of exceptionally able men, and the scientific apparatus and library of 70,000 volumes are of the best. The library is now domiciled in the main building, but will soon have a home of its own. The university now has 62 instructors and 625 students.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

WONDERFUL INSTANCE OF APHASIA LASTING TWENTY YEARS.

Georgia Man, Long Thought Dead, Is Alive In California—His Daughter Searching Out the Facts—The Story Reads Like a Veritable Romance.

A case bordering on the supernatural is one that has developed within the last few weeks—a case involving a startling incident of aphasia, the supposed death of a husband and father and the subsequent return of the faculty of proper speech after a period of more than 20 years.

The principal actor is in San Francisco and the members of his family live in Anniston, Ala.

It is a case that almost surpasses credulity.

More than 30 years ago a Georgian named Allen went west to seek a fortune for his family. He had a wife and eight children. He left his home after selling all of his property except a little strip of land upon which the family home was situated and went to the great west, where men were making fortunes in a day.

He made the trip, and soon wrote back from California that he was having not the success he had hoped for and had calculated upon, but a success which warranted him on sending back home plenty of money for the care of his family and furnishing them delicacies that they had not before enjoyed. For a time he wrote home regularly, but finally the letters stopped coming.

After weeks, which grew into months, no letter having come, the family began to write to parties in the section where the father had gone. They soon received answers to these inquiries, and their worst fears were realized. They were informed that he had been assaulted by a lot of desperadoes and one of them had struck him over the head with a heavy stone, knocking him insensible. The letter told of how he was taken to the hospital, and there, despite the best medical attention, died.

There was sadness in the family of Allen, and they mourned him as lost. For 20 years they thought he was dead. In the meantime the family circle grew smaller. The faithful wife died and so did all the children but two. One of those surviving daughters, Miss Alice Allen, married Dr. Acton, the son of Mr. T. M. Acton, of Atlanta, Ga.

About three weeks ago there was a dispatch printed in The Constitution about a man who claimed to be from Georgia or Alabama, and who was suing for property in the city of San Francisco to the amount of $1,000,000. The name of this man was Allen, and his initials were the same as those of Mrs. Acton's father. And the story was decidedly, sensationally similar.

The dispatch told how the man Allen had been in a hospital in San Francisco for 20 years. He had been struck over the head, and the blow caused him to lose the faculty of proper speech. He could not express himself at all. It was, in fact, a case of aphasia. This story was just like the story of Mrs. Acton's father. He was struck on the head about 20 years ago. The San Francisco Allen, who had invested money in property about there, as soon as he recovered his speech, gave his name, and said that he was from the Georgia and Alabama line.

After reading the story in The Constitution Mrs. Acton decided that she would investigate the matter. She did not write to the recovered patient, but to the mayor of San Francisco and the ordinary of San Francisco county. The ordinary wrote to Mrs. Acton and requested her to forward certain documents which she could secure, and to secure a certificate from the ordinary of her county that she was the bona fide daughter of the man who was once thought to be dead.

Mr. J. M. B. Carlton, the well known commission merchant, is a son-in-law of Mr. Allen. He stated to a reporter that the story of his father-in-law and that of the San Francisco Allen were so similar that he and the other two members of the family felt that it must be their relative and were therefore losing no efforts to discover if it is really the father. They have not written to him, however, fearing that their dearest hope might prove untrue.

If the Allen in San Francisco proves to be the Georgia Allen, Mrs. Dr. Acton and sister will probably go to San Francisco this winter to see their father, who is now over 60 years old.—Atlanta Constitution.

Narcoti-Cure

Cures the Tobacco Habit in 4 to 10 Days or Money Refunded.

Use All the Tobacco You Want Till Your "Craving" is Gone.

NARCOTI CURE is the only remedy in the world that acts directly on the nerves and drives the nicotine from the system in from four to ten days. It leaves the patient in better health than before taking, and is warranted free from any injurious ingredients.

NARCOTI-CURE is popular because it allows the patient to use all the tobacco he wants while under treatment, or until the "craving" and "hankering" are gone. It is then no sacrifice to throw away tobacco forever.

NARCOTI-CURE is sold at the uniform price of $5 a bottle, and one bottle cures.

Money refunded if a cure is not effected when taken according to directions.

THE NARCOTI CHEMICAL CO.,
Springfield, Mass.

Gentlemen: Replying to yours of the 1st, would say that I have used tobacco for 46 years, and of late have consumed a 10 cent plug a day, besides smoking considerably. I commenced to use tobacco when I was only 11 years old, and have never been able to give up the habit until I took NARCOTI CURE, although I have tried other so called remedies without effect. After using your remedy four days, all "hankering" for chewing disappeared, and in four days more smoking became unpleasant. I have no further desire for the weed, and experienced no bad effects whatever. I am gaining in flesh, and feel better than I have for a long time. To all who wish to be free from the tobacco habit I would say, use NARCOTI CURE.

Yours truly, W. N. WHITE.

If your druggist is unable to give you full particulars about Narcoti-Cure, send to us for a Book of Particulars free, or send $5.00 for a bottle by mail.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Wa-wa-Canawl-Yah Avenue.

Funny, isn't it? If it were not that some people are afraid of two or three men down our way we would make our end of the city look like a "Greater Middletown" within three months. We are doing considerable in that line nevertheless, but it is harder, of course, to work with this constant grumbling and objecting. There were men who opposed the Erie Road because it would destroy teaming. Another thought electric lights in Middletown might make people stumble over the shadows. Another said if they changed the name of "Canal street" to the old musical Indian name of Wawayanda avenue, some of his friends couldn't spell it. Another wanted one of the church spires taken down for fear it would fall. Another said if people would do less washing and measure the water they used, Middletown would not need any more

Richmond Hill is not backed by narrow gauged men. Wide streets appropriately named, 800 shade trees, 100 lamp posts, extra sized building lots, easy terms; in fact, with an abiding conviction and faith in the greater Middletown, we offer to-day to home-seekers the greatest opportunity in years. We have helped over twenty persons to build homes in the last three months, and we are still "in the ring."

Base Ball—A Wedding—The Water Works Kickers—Banquet of the Academy Alumni—Commencement Exercises—Other Newsy Items.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Mrs. Fred C. Hawkins and daughter, Eleanor, left for their home in Englewood, N. J., Saturday, after a three weeks' visit with her parents in this village.

—The Montgomery, Jr., B. B. C. crossed bats with the Campbell Hall Giants, last Saturday, on Platt's diamond. Although the visitors were weak by the absence of three of their best players they played a good game, the score being 17 to 7 in favor of the home team. The two clubs will again try conclusions in the near future. The Montgomerys will go to Bullville, Friday, and will play two games at home on the Fourth.

—Dean Fulton has had hard luck to keep a steady man in his express business, but good things come slow. It was a twelve pound boy, on Monday.

—Some of the pipe to be used in the construction of our water works has been shipped from the foundry in Alabama.

—Miss Emma McNeal is the guest of Miss Essie Dusenberry, at her home in Jersey City.

—Mr. George Bodle and Miss Sadie Shafer, both of the Kaiserstown neighborhood, were married at the home of the bride, by the Rev. R. H. McCready, of Chester, on Wednesday last.

—Mr. George H. Young, of the Standard office, is all smiles these days. It came on Tuesday, and was a masculine nine pounder. What will you make of your first son, Harve, an editor or a devil?

—The water works kickers will hold another meeting soon, but no one seems to know what for. There is lots of fun here over the question. They seem to kick harder in the time of a drouth.

—Mr. James Vanderoef is making extensive improvements to his handsome residence on Charles street and Wallkill avenue. A hot water heater and a bath room are among them. You see some are preparing to use water.

—The Alumni Association of the Montgomery Union Free School held their first annual banquet in the Palace Hotel, Friday evening. Seventy-two guests were present, and report a very interesting and enjoyable evening.

—Mr. John H. Cox contemplates taking a trip to Sam's Point with a friend, next Sunday, weather permitting.

—One of our opposers of water works is being guyed these days. He was at the pumping station, the other day, and was growling to Engineer A. Potter that one thing would be right and another didn't seem quite the thing, etc. Then Mr. Potter convinced the disgruntled citizen of his mistake and asked him when and where he studied for an engineer. He also wrote down the conversation, and now we have the laugh on the man who didn't know much about water works.

The Binghamton Leader says that "the silver question is resolving the Republican party into an asylum for mutes."

Statistics carefully compiled by the Chicago Tribune show that within three months 250,000 workmen in different industries have had their wages increased. The average advance is 11¾ per cent. The "free trade" scare will never stampede the workingmen again.

Senator O'Connor, of Binghamton, one of the Republican senators whose course last winter was not satisfactory to the "reformers" and against whose renomination they had begun to raise a clamor, has retired from the field. He told a reporter of the Binghamton Leader that he could not afford another term in the Senate but felt that in justice to himself and his clients he should devote his time to his law business. In the course of the interview Senator O'Connor said: "I don't believe in mugwumpery, goo-gooism, independence or any other ism."

In a communication elsewhere, President Wiggins of the Board of Education points out a way by which, if the taxpayers are willing, Middletown can secure new school buildings without a burdensome tax levy in one year, and without conflict with the constitutional prohibition against excessive bonding. Mr. Wiggins's plan is to take advantage of the right given by an amendment to the charter and collect the school building tax, if it is voted, in installments extending over five years. The plan is entirely practicable, and affords an easy way out of a very serious dilemma.

An effort is being made to raise funds for the completion of the tunnel under the Hudson River from Hoboken to New York. The tunnel was begun twenty years ago, and, as funds could be secured, work on it was continued until 1891, since which time nothing has been done. The tunnel has been bored 3,600 feet from the New Jersey shore, and 550 feet from the New York side. It is estimated that $500,000 will complete the tunnel, but a very much larger sum will be necessary to provide terminals and approaches, without which the tunnel would be of no use.

Facts and figures disprove the assertion of the McKinleyites that a "flood of imports" will quickly glut our markets and put an end to business prosperity. Treasury statistics show that our importations of iron and steel, pottery and textile fabrics, for the past ten months, were over $20,000,000 less than those for the corresponding ten months in 1893 and 1894, when the McKinley tariff was in force. In this connection it may be of interest to note that the Iron Age, referring to the boom in the production of and prices for iron and steel, says that despite the fact that in some quarters the fear is expressed that prices are being advanced too rapidly, it sees "no danger from imports."

The convention of the Democrats of Kentucky, which began in bitterness and which was the scene of one of the hardest struggles for supremacy ever known in the political history of the State, ended in peace, harmony and good feeling. The platform, though it makes no specific reference to the silver question, reaffirms the national Democratic platform of 1892, which declared in unmistakable terms for honest money, and heartily endorses Cleveland and Carlisle. In the interest of harmony Cassius M. Clay, Jr., withdrew as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and P. W. Hardin who had been supported by the free silver faction was nominated with a hurrah. At first blush it seems most anomolous that a free silverite should be nominated on a gold standard platform, but such seeming contradictions are often the result of political compromises. In Kentucky the platform was the one essential thing worth fighting for. The party in the State is kept in line with that of the nation in favor of honest money and the personality of the candidate and his individual views on any question are of no special moment.

The water was smooth and the wind southeast, giving the crews the advantage of both wind and tide.

Columbia had a little the best of the start. Yale and Harvard got off on even terms.

Shortly after the start Columbia was overhauled and passed by both Harvard and Yale, and at the end of the first mile Harvard and Yale were even and Columbia four lengths behind.

Yale made a fine spurt near the finish, winning by a length. Harvard second, Columbia, which had a made a tremendous spurt, a close third.

The official time was 16 m., 28 s.

The contest between Yale and Harvard is conceded on all sides to have been one of the gamest races ever rowed on the Thames. At no time were the boats over a length apart.

Tired, Weak, Nervous

Hood's Sarsaparilla Restores Strength and Bodily Vigor.

The cause of that tired, weak, nervous condition in which so many people find themselves, is the failure of the blood to properly nourish the nerves and tissues. Feed the nerves upon pure blood, and they will be steady and strong. Read this:

Mrs. C. F. Venable
Keithsburg, Ill.

"It is with pleasure that I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as an excellent nerve tonic and blood purifier. I have taken it more than once and am taking it now. I was tired, my body ached, and I felt very badly all over. I was afraid I would be sick. I thought I would take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and and I find that it is cheaper than the doctor's bills. Hood's Pills are the best I have ever taken and I use no other. I am glad to have an opportunity to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. F. VENABLE, Keithsburg, Ill.

MILK FOR PHILADELPHIA.

First Shipment of Orange County Milk to the Quaker City.

The first shipment of milk in cans from Orange county to Philadelphia will be made, this afternoon, by Mr. Charles G. Pierson, of Warwick. The milk will be shipped on the Lehigh and Hudson's 5.47 train, and such arrangements have been made for its transportation by connecting roads that it will arrive at the Reading's milk sheds in time for to-morrow morning's delivery.

The Lehigh and Hudson milk car will be run through to Philadelphia and it is expected the opening of this route will in the near future result in large shipments of Orange and Sussex county milk to the Quaker City, and afford an outlet for some of the surplus.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Mr. J. D Wood Remembered by His Friends on His Anniversary.

Yesterday was the fortieth anniversary of the birthday of Mr. John D. Wood, and a number of his friends gave him a pleasant surprise, last evening, by way of celebrating the event.

They presented him with a fine easy chair, in which to rest his forty-year-old bones, and a German silver watch, about the size of an ordinary clock, by which he will be able without the aid of glasses to keep track of the speedy flight of time during his remaining years. The watch was presented in a neat speech by Mr. T. A. Weller.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood entertained their guests right royally until after midnight.

Thirteen Years With the Circus.

When Sells Brothers' circus was here, thirteen years ago, Joe Hooker and George Hasbrouck, well known residents, hired with it as general utility men. Hasbrouck who has been with the circus ever since, and has not been back to Middletown, has been renewing old acquaintances about town to-day. Hooker, he says, has married and settled down in Pittsburg.

A Good Record Broken At Last

Our citizens who have watched the course of the Traction company's officials since the electric road was opened, could not fail to observe that they have required their employes to exercise the greatest care to avoid accidents and to this unusual caution is attributed the fact that we have escaped until the present without an accident of a serious nature. It is needless to say that outside of the family of the unfortunate victim of last night's accident no one feel it so keenly as do the officers of the company. It is the breaking of a record of which they had reason to feel proud.
